Wild and wicked Pirate cats living their outlaw lives aboard their derelict ship far out at sea is the substance of this drama.

Even though there is sometimes honor among theives the desperate pirates even shot each others ships to pieces. Down in the hold, held securely by ball and chain was prisoner Timothy Mouse and standing guard just outside, was the Hound<sup>oh</sup> the heathen islands, the worst pirate on the dead sea. When the ship was rocking around violently by the stormy sea. Timothy succeeded in breaking his chain. He picks up the 400 pound iron ball and hurls it thru the port hole, it crashes against the nickle plated dome of the pirate guard and breaks into small chips. The pirate stumbling gently into the sea. When Tim is escaping he slides down a mast and bumps on the head of another pirate, a wild chase over the ship begins up in the mast Tim kicks one pirate after the other into the sea. One shoots Tim right thru the left ear. Tim wakes up at the bottom of the sea and starts to row ashore on a big fish. At this point Tim comes to reading a book by Stenenson he feels very brave but when he turns and sees a real live cat he runs for dear life his last words were: "It's A Wise Mouse That knows When to change His Mind".
